Latimer Weavers Exhibit

The Latimer Weavers practice their craft both at Latimer and on their home looms. They produce a wide variety of products from an equally varied amount of fibers. They may use silk, wool, cotton, synthetics or combinations of the above.

They learn from each other, since the passing of long time Master Teacher, Shirley Medsker. One wall of the exhibit room is dedicated to examples of Shirley's work.

For this Weavers' Gallery Show the Weavers will have a community loom so visitors can try their hand at floor loom weaving. Indeed, the loom is currently available for visitors in the weaving room. The loom is warped in the spirit of the Japanese Saori tradition with plain weave and two treadle pattern. This encourages free expression with yarn as an antidote to mass-production and mass consumption. "Mistakes" are design elements. It does not matter if your selvages are straight or your beat is irregular. Your cloth is made by human hand, not machine. Come enjoy weaving with us.

New Manager Christina

Christina Pfister grew up in Vienna, Austria and is proud to call the North Oregon Coast home since 2014. Her travels and studies have taken her to many different places all over the world. She is a vocalist, a linguist, a book editor, a writer, an educator, and a passionate advocate for the arts. She holds a BA in German, Linguistics, and Music and an MA in Cross-Cultural Studies.

When she is not learning the inner machinations of Latimer, she is singing in local ensembles, paddling with the Nehalem Tiderunners, serving as the Vice President of the Oregon Society of Translators and Interpreters, teaching classes through the Small Business Development Center, editing books, hosting writer's retreats, and enjoying her cats. She loves surrounding herself with curious and inquisitive learners (K through adult) and enjoys seeing people's eyes light up as they discover new elements of and approaches to beauty. The fact that this happens regularly at Latimer is a joy. Please come by and say hi—she'd love to meet you!
