Program – “Casting Shadows with Colleen Wise”

Colleen is from Puyallup, WA told an enlightened story of her life from not doing well in Home Economics class in school as a youth, behind an older sister Mary that per her words is a “Martha Stewart without a felony conviction.” Took her favorite class of geometry and her engineering background into designing and making quilts. Her story was told with humor and joy of her art. She may have not liked art in school, but she is a true artist with her beautiful quilt designs. All her quilts needed depth either in a story behind the design or Visual Depth. She published a book called “Casting Shadows” several years ago.

She uses many different techniques to get her shadows in her quilts, applique, discharging color with a process bleach, and then dyeing colors to fabrics.

She did give a sharp caution to the discharging process to do it with lots of personal protection and to use a neutralizer on the fabric to stop the continuation of the bleach process on fabric called Antichlor.

Colleen will be teaching workshop on Friday that was boxes in boxes.

Block Of Month – Will start again in October.
