Pamela Potter February 12 Workshop…

Bargello Eazy Peazy

Friday, February 12, 2027, 9:00-4:00, $45

Pamela Potter, chair of the Program and Workshops Committee, likes to learn new things in quiltmaking, especially if they are easy and beautiful.

Bargello is a needlework technique that originated in Italian embroidery, named after the Bargello Palace in Florence. In quilting, the Bargello effect is created by arranging strips of graduated colors in staggered columns, producing an illusion of flowing waves, flames, or cascading curves. The pattern relies entirely on color placement — dark to light and back again — to create its stunning visual impact. Jenny Doan's (Missouri Star) method simplifies this dramatically: you sew strips into tubes, then cut the tubes at different widths to create pre-arranged color sequences.

Pamela shares: I have been sewing since my mother taught me when I was a teen. I dabbled in fabric projects over the years (clothes, curtains, and a quilted wall hanging). Since retirement in 2020, my quilting has taken off exponentially! I'd love to share this Eazy Peazy bargello with you.

If you register for the class, you will receive a hand-out with fabric requirements and prep instructions. You will need to purchase the pattern from Missouri Star. You will create a lap quilt (50 X 61.5). Skill: All levels.
